President McKinley said much good sense about the Cuban situation.-Balti-

The message indicates a clear under-standing of many complex subjects that come before the executive, and its rec-ommendations are generally sound and interesting.—Philadelphia Times, (Ind.

The President assumes that the tariff act of the present Congress will ulti-mately produce a revenue sufficient for the needs of the government. At all -Philadelphia Times, (Ind. Dem.)

The best part of the message is that which is devoted to the consideration of the Cuban question, which is treated at length in a tone of great moderation and conservatism, of sound statesmanand patriotism.-Baltimore

Mr. McKinley's earnest recommenda-tion that greenbacks paid into the treasury for gold be set apart and paid out only for gold has already been free-ly discussed and approved. It is a step, nd a long one, toward making system sound.-New Times (Dem.)

The President's message may thus be

The President a gummed up: peace and industry at home. Peace and arbitration abroad. And in this we may find the alpha and omega of American statesmanship.

We are glad to note that the Presi-We are glad to note that the President admits the fact-official Indorsement of which has been hitherto lacking—that a very large proportion of the money secured by bond issues during the previous administration was devoted to meeting the current expenses of the government.—Washington Post (Ind. Dem.)

He must be a poor American who is not pleased with the President's utterances concerning Cuba. The simple record of the achievements of the administration in the last nine months, as modestly rehearsed, is ample to satisfy the most zealous upholder of American rights and honor.—New York Tribune, (Ren.)

His remarks about the civil service His remarks about the civil service, and his attitude towards it, are plain and sensible, showing an appreciation of national interests rather than sensitiveness about a fad. The President would have a workable service, while carefully preserving all of the features that have practical value as reforms.—Baltimore American (Rep.)

The message will go far toward allay ing all uneasiness as to foreign compli-cations, and in its lack of radical recomcations and in its late of radical recom-mendation on the financial question lies the only hope of any accomplishment in that direction. The tone of the docu-ment will increase the faith of the coun-try in the President.—Washington Post (Ind. Dam)

President McKinley's message is em-inently "safe." It treats the delicate question of Cuba with a wise and statesmanlike sectifude of view. The eternal sealing question, arbitration and all questions of foreign relations are disposed of in a way to soothe every uneasy feeling which the known lingo proclivities of Congress may have proclivities of Congress may baroused.—New York Times (Dem.)

No better way could be devised than to authorize the prompt execution of the plan which the President recommends. It might, it is true, result in a temporary contraction of the currency, but if it became known that the greenbacks deposited in the treasury were not to be again available unless withdrawn by a deposit of gold, even this contraction would not occur, because the value of the greenback as an instrument of securing gold would be reduced to a minimum.—Washington Post (Ind. minimum.-Washington Post

The message ends with the significant sentence that "it is a commanding duty sentence that "it is a commanding duty to keep the appropriations within the receipts of the government and thus avoid a deficit." This is the real secret of the "deficit"—not insufficient revenues, but excessive appropriations. And it is by restraining the expenses of the government within the limits of probable revenues; instead of reaching out over land and sea for new fields of expenditure, but the deficit is to be avoided. The President has thus given to the Congress, on all domestic affairs at last, a good chart by which to steer.—Philadelphia Times (Ind. Dem.)

As the President presents it, this is the situation of the country in a nutshell: We are at peace with the world. American money must express the highest value of money, no less, no more. The national credit must be above menace or reproach. So far as Cuba is concerned, war is war, and cannot be waged with butter and honey. We may strive to bring about peace, but peace alone with honor. In the but peace alone with honor. In meantime the rights of American meantime the tights are been protected, for the sword, though sheathed, is not dull of edge. Through American influence Spain grants reforms to Cuba.—New York Herald (Ind. Dem.)

An Elephant's Trank.

St. Nicholas: The wonderful power of the trunk was a never failing surprise to us. Its extreme sensitiveness, and yet its great strength, showed how well supplied it must have been with nerves. It was always moving, always feeling or smelling, or carrying something, and the little sort of finger tip seemed the center of sensibility. I remember well that she would never allow us to touch it, and she guarded it with great care, folding it up if she thought it was in any danger. It is said by the natives that an elephant deprived of his sight, so helpless does it become.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphis, was the subject, is narrated by him, as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was simest, yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and eldes, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians and given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters," and to my great by and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved by life and robbed the grave of another victim." No Robbed the Grave. mnn. I know they saved by life and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fall to try them, Only 50 cents per bottle at Logan Drug Company's drug store.

The bull contingent met with some formidable obstacles in their efforts to advance prices of stecks to-day and the greater part of their success was achieved in the industrial specialties. The manipulation in the case of these stocks was very open and palpable, but some substantial gains were shown by some substantial gains were shown by railroad stocks on the firm basis creased earnings. There were a number of stocks also which were persistently of stocks also which were persistently heavy in tone and required support to prevent the spread of weakness through the whole market. This was notably true of Sugar, which ruled for some time below yesterday's closing price and fell at one time to the extent of a point. London was very large seller of stocks on balance in this market and the volume of sales of that account is estimated as high as 40,000 shares, embracing all of the international stocks. Union Pacific fell 1½ per cent on the resolution of the senate to postpone the Kansas Pacific sale.

Manhattan and Northwest and Northern Pacific and some more less prominent stocks showed a heavy tone during the whole of the early part of the day. These causes, together with the inertness of the granger group, was a persistent drag on the market. The latter part of the day saw a very animated contest between professional traders for the control of the market. The stocks of local trading companies was pushed up uniformly to a higher traders for the control of the market. The stocks of local trading companies was pushed up uniformly to a higher level on the strength of 't'ips' that the underground rapid transit scheme would fall of endorsement by the courts and by reports of the apprehensive amalgamation of local transit interests. Manhattan was the leader of this class and rose 2½ per cent, but all the stocks in that group of securities showed sharp gains. The buils accorded the same treatment to the Vanderbilt group of stocks a little later and caised nearly all of them from one to two points. Finally Northern Pacific preferred was taken in hand and lifted out of its early depression by a renewal of reports of an approaching dividend declaration on the preferred stock. These last named changes were facilitated by the return from abroad of an influential financial factor interested in those properties. The net result is to show a very irregular range of changes. In the majority of standard railway shares which were left free from manipulation, the changes are small, though gains approaching a point are shown in some southern railroads, which are showing good earning capacity. Quite a number of small small, though gains approaching a point are shown in some southern railroads, which are showing good earning capacity. Quite a number of small losses are shown. In the specialties on the other hand, including Manhattan, Tobacco, Leather preferred, Rubber preferred, Brooklyn Transit, Metropolitan Traction and a number of the Vanderbills, gains extend from a point to 2%c, the latter in Manhattan. The bond market continued active and broad, some notable gains being shown in special cases and the level of prices throughout the list showing a material advance. St. Louis & San Francisco trust 5's size 7 per cent hisher. Mobile & Ohio rose to 2½ points higher in accordance with the advance 4½ per cent in the stock of that company. Breadstuffs and Provisions

CHICAGO—Not since August, 1891, has any month's delivery of wheat sold as high as December did to-day. It rose from $1 01½ at the opening to $1 02, but in most irregular fashion. It had many sudden backward slides, but in the endit rested at $1 07, or the not inconsiderable improvement of 6½c for the day. January was a good second, windings up ary was a good second, winding up with a gain of 3c. May was less demonstrative in its bullishness. Its advance was 15c a bushel. Other grain and provision markets were more or less influenced by the advance in wheat. Corn and oats closed 5c higher and each of the provisions 567½c higher.

Wheat was very nervous at the start. Shorts were evidently alarmed by the announcement that the bull clique had made arrangements to ship by rail all the wheat delivered them on December contracts and had also made advantageous storage contracts in the east. strative in its bullishness. Its advance contracts and had also made advantageous storage contracts in the east. The consequence was that there was a host of buying orders for December at the opening, mostly of moderate lots, it is true, but they had the same effect on the already strained market as if they were for millions. There was no wheat for sale. December closed yesterday at 11 00½, but opening bids to-day ranged all the way from $1 01½ to $1 04 and even at the top there was scarcely a even at the top there was scarcely a bushel to be had. This precipitated a perfect scramble among the shorts, not in December alone, but in January and May also. Before wheat came out $105 was offered for December. Then came was offered for December. Then came a lull which lasted for an hour. Brokers operating for the bull clique attempted to stem the tide, but probably from 200,000 to 250,000 bushels were taken before a reaction occurred. December declined to $1 034, but by 11:45 had again risen to $1 05. Then came the storm. Within five minutes and amid a whirl of excitement, December was bid up to $1 08. It reacted with a jerk to $1 064, then up again without a stop to $1 09, the highest point bid for wheat in this market in six years. Probably as much the highest point bid for wheat in this market in six years. Probably as much wheat was sold on this advance as on the earlier one. After that the market was quieter. January shorts in the meantime had not been idle. That month opened strong at from 95c to 94c and it sold as high as 97c during the excitement, an advance of 5½c since yesterday. It was figured that the influences controlling December also applied to January and shorts went under cover as quickly as they could. May cover as quickly as they could. May was also very strong, though it did not was also very strong, though it did not have the same panicky appearance of other options. It opened at 91@91½c as compared with yesterday's closing price of 901@699%c and had advanced by noon to 92%@92%. If the market at the opening had been left as usual to take its imprint from those things that usually affect it, a decline would in all probability have occurred. The number of cars received to-day at Minneapolis. and Duluth was $15, compared with 753 a year ago, and 678 the week before. Chicago got 128,000 bushels by lake besides 218 cars by rail, As it was believsides 218 cars by rail. As it was believed that yesterday's figures indicated that receipts in the northwest would from now on show a steady falling off, this showing was a disappointment. But the wild anties of the December option caused the northwestern receipts to be entirely overlooked. The quantity inspected our from here was 130,000 bushels. Liverpeol opened firm at an advance of 564 and closed only a shade higher, although they must have known there before the end of their session of the early considerable strength of the market here. The continental marthere before the end of their session of the early considerable strength of the market here. The continental markets were very little changed. The exports from Atlantic ports were quite up to their recent liberal average, the day's total being equal in wheat and flour to 63,000 bushels, including 64,000 bushels of wheat from Galveston. Reports of rains interfering with the harvesting of wheat in Argentine and that the exportable surplus would be reduced in consequenced. That was one of the items of the day's news, that like a good many more received had very little attention paid to it. December during the final hour's trading moved irregularly between $1.05½ and $1.07. closing nervous at that price. May had reacted to $25% 932½ c at the close, while January wound up at $44½. Corn was duil, but firm, the range being 44% 54c. The tone was due largely to the advance in wheat and better demand for December, which sold within 3½ of May. Wet weather west was also a feature, as was the decreased country offerings. The market did not advance much during the morning, but later in the day the persistent strength of wheat drove shorts to cover and the market ruled strong for the rest of the session. Receipts were 373 cars, clearances 310,000 bushels May ranged from
